CRITERIA FOR NOMINATION

This award enables the Security Industry to recognise outstanding female security professionals to showcase the achievements of these women, highlight the contribution they make to the businesses they work for and encourage a future pool of female candidates to join the private security industry.

ISIA members are invited to submit one nomination per annum which highlights the achievements of an outstanding female member of their team who has contributed to their business success and serves as an exceptional example for women considering a career in the private security industry.

Narrowing the gender gap in the workplace leads to positive business outcomes. By highlighting the success of female security professionals and outlining why these individuals serve as examples to encourage greater interest from women for roles within the security industry will lead to more positive outcomes and future success for ISIA member companies.

Criteria For Assessment: Please demonstrate the following in your submission: (1) Outstanding performance in their role (2) Exceptional achievements that go beyond the requirements of their role and (3) Why they serve as an example for women working in the industry or specific efforts they have made to encourage or serve as a role model for other women in the industry or entering the industry

Submission Guidelines

Please ensure you have provided adequate detail to allow the judges to score your nominee against each of the outlined criteria for assessment. A 200 minimum word count for each assessment criteria is a good guide. Therefore, 600 – 1000 words per company submission would allow for an outline of each area to be addressed.

A letter or letters (as applicable) of support that also outline the achievements of the nominee against the criteria outlined above and as a guide should be no less than 200 words.

We have not set a minimum or maximum word count for submissions. The information above has been provided as a guide to assist ISIA member companies with preparing their submissions. The assessment and judging will be carried out based on the submission, Therefore, please ensure all relevant information is contained in the submission.

Candidates Position in the Organisation – Please note that the candidate you nominate should not be in a role where there is a relevant category as part of the ISIA Awards 2022. Candidates at an operative level such as Security Office of the Year, Security Supervisor of the Year, Electronic Security Technician of the Year, Electronic Security Supervisor of the Year, Event Security Person of the Year should be included in submissions under these headings. The nominee should fall into categories outside of these such as Administrative Functions or Mid-Level Management.
